Lexington attorney to lead Kentucky Chamber in 2009

Greenebaum Doll & McDonald's Darby Turner elected chairman

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Sept. 2, 2008) – Darby Turner, member of Greenebaum, Doll & McDonald PLLC has been elected chairman of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's 2009 Board of Directors. Turner will head a 60-member board, representing a cross-section of Kentucky business and industry.

"This year, as the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce institutes its new three-year strategic plan, we will be focusing on three priorities that could transform the state – improving education, modernizing government, and encouraging health and wellness," said Turner. "Our board members represent businesses of all sizes from all corners of the Commonwealth and are enthusiastic about helping us to unite business and advance Kentucky."

Turner is a member of Greenebaum's Corporate and Commercial Practice Group and the Tax and Finance Group in the Lexington office. His practice focuses on general corporate representation, real estate law, including representation before the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Planning and Zoning Commission, and business and estate planning matters. Turner served on the Greenebaum management committee for 15 years and as member-in-charge of the firm's Lexington and Frankfort offices for seven years.

Turner succeeds 2008 Chairman Jude Thompson, who most recently served as president of individual business for Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield. Chairman-elect for 2010 is Joan Coleman, president of AT&T Kentucky.

Serving with Turner, Thompson and Coleman on the 2009 Executive Committee will be:

- Treasurer Craig Grant, regional president of PNC Bank in Louisville;
- James Booth, CEO of Booth Energy in Inez;
- Luther Deaton, chairman, president and CEO of Central Bank & Trust in Lexington;
- Pat D'Eramo, manufacturing vice president of Toyota Motor Manufacturing Kentucky in Georgetown;
- Bill Jones, division manager of U.S. Bank in Paducah;
- Keith Gannon, CEO of Boneal in Means;
- Jeffrey Bringardner, president of Humana-Kentucky in Louisville;
- Mary Jean Riley, vice president of finance and administration for North American Stainless in Ghent;
- Nick Rowe, president of Kentucky American Water in Lexington;
- Mike Owsley, partner, English, Lucas, Priest and Owsley in Bowling Green; and
- Tim Mosher, president and COO of Kentucky Power in Frankfort.

Newly elected 2009 members at large are:

- Dan Bork, vice president, tax, for Lexmark International in Lexington;
- Kevin Canafax, Midwest region site general manager for Fidelity Investments in Covington;

- Rusty Chevront, assistant vice president and director of global community relations for Brown-Forman Corporation in Louisville;
- Jeff Conder, vice president of Americas Operations for Beam Global Spirits and Wine in Clermont;
- Steve Grossman, senior vice president of J.J.B. Hilliard, W.L. Lyons, Inc. in Lexington;
- Chris Hermann, senior vice president, energy delivery, for E.ON US in Louisville;
- Steve Higdon, partner and executive vice president of business development for Faulkner Real Estate in Louisville;
- Kathy Love, chief executive officer of Bluegrass Community Hospital in Versailles;
- Ann Bakhaus McBrayer, president of Kentucky Eagle Beer in Lexington;
- Deborah Moessner, president of Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield's Kentucky Market in Louisville;
- Linda Rumpke, president of JP Morgan Chase in Lexington;
- Randy Schumaker, chief management officer of Logan Aluminum in Russellville; and
- Kelly Swartz, site president and regional director of collections for Citi Cards in Florence.

About the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce

From its beginnings in 1946 as a bipartisan voice for business at the state Capitol, the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce has evolved into the premier business association in the state. Today the Chamber represents 2,700 member businesses – from Fortune 500 companies to family-owned shops – that employ over half of the Commonwealth's workforce. Kentucky Chamber members benefit from a broad range of services: year-round lobbying, timely communications on business issues, publications and seminars on evolving regulations and policies, and a variety of other member benefits.
