

Contact:
Jessica Fletcher
Communications Manager
(W) 502-848-8731
(C) 859-539-0511
jfletcher@kychamber.com

State business leaders to unite to discuss “Five Goals to Transform Kentucky”

FRANKFORT, Ky. (July 23, 2008) – The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce’s “Five Goals to Transform Kentucky” have made many headlines in recent months – bringing about thoughts of change and progress to citizens across the Commonwealth. Released early this year, the five goals: improving education attainment; modernizing Kentucky’s government; creating a healthier Kentucky; improving our standing in the global market; and making the state a national leader in energy, are aimed at improving the state’s workforce, economy and way of life.

At the Kentucky Chamber’s third Economic Summit and Annual Meeting on July 28 and 29, these goals will again receive attention as the state’s top business, education and legislative leaders meet to discuss some of the many ways we can reach these goals. State and national experts addressing these goals include Ted Fishman, bestselling author of China Inc.: How the Rise of the Next Superpower Challenges America and the World; Dr. Pearse Lyons, president and founder of Alltech; and Dr. Dave S. Spence, president of the Southern Regional Education Board.

The two-day event, sponsored by Greenebaum, Doll and McDonald, will conclude with a dinner event featuring Donna Brazile and Tucker Carlson. Brazile and Carlson, political analysts for CNN and MSNBC, will offer a spirited discussion of the 2008 presidential election.

To view a complete agenda of the Economic Summit and Annual meeting, to register, or to obtain other information on the event, visit www.kychamber.com. For questions, please call 502-695-4700.

###