

Condrad Daniels of HJI Supply Chain Solutions

ELECTED 2026 CHAIR OF THE KENTUCKY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

KIM HALBAUER OF FIFTH THIRD BANK CHOSEN AS CHAIR-ELECT

Condrad Daniels, president of HJI Supply Chain Solutions, has been elected to serve as chair of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce for the 2026 term. Daniels succeeds Scott Davis, chairman and CEO of Field & Main Bank, whose term expired on September 30, 2025.

Daniels brings more than two decades of experience in the logistics industry to his role as president of HJI Supply Chain Solutions, a single-source provider of outsourced manufacturing, contract warehousing, and 3PL supply chain solutions. Over his 24-year tenure, he has held multiple leadership positions—including Quality Systems Engineer and Chief Operating Officer—and has been instrumental in expanding HJI's capabilities across warehousing, order fulfillment, distribution, and manufacturing support services.

He was named president in 2017 following a four-year

generational succession planning process. Under his leadership, the company has grown from a single-industry facility into one of the largest woman- and minority-owned businesses in Kentucky, operating more than 1.3 million square feet across eight locations in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Daniels has demonstrated extensive leadership and civic engagement through service on numerous business and community boards. He has held key leadership roles with the Kentucky Chamber and Greater Louisville Inc. and currently serves as chair of the Louisville Branch Board of Directors of the 8th District Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

A graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology and the University of Louisville, Daniels has received the Brown-Forman Family Business Leadership Award and was named an Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Finalist for the Central-East region.

OPPORTUNITY STARTS HERE: CHAMBER PRIORITIZES

Child Care & Housing to Grow Kentucky's Workforce

As the Commonwealth heads into the 2026 legislative session, the Kentucky Chamber is leading efforts to address two key barriers to growth: child care and housing. With new research and collaborative partnerships, the Chamber is advancing solutions that support working families and ensure Kentucky's economy continues to grow.

Testifying before multiple legislative committees during the interim, Chamber leaders emphasized how access to child care and housing directly impacts workforce participation and stressed that economic progress depends on policy solutions that support working families and address cost-of-living concerns.

KENTUCKY BUSINESS COMMUNITY

Honors Senator McConnell

PRESENTED BY DENTONS

Business and civic leaders from across the Commonwealth gathered in Louisville in October as the Kentucky Chamber honored U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell for more than 40 years of public service and leadership at its Annual Dinner.

Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Ashli Watts opened the event by recognizing McConnell as one of the most influential Kentuckians in history. Chamber Board Chair Scott Davis of Field & Main Bank highlighted McConnell's role in advancing pro-growth policies that has opened doors for Kentucky and strengthened its position on the national stage.

U.S. Chamber President and CEO Suzanne Clark praised McConnell's enduring defense of free enterprise and his leadership through uncertain times, urging continued support for the principles that drive economic growth. Senate President Robert Stivers and House Speaker David Osborne reflected on McConnell's legacy of mentorship, results-driven leadership, and steady service to Kentucky and the nation.

In a conversation with Senator Julie Raque Adams, McConnell reflected on his career, emphasizing the value of showing up, listening, and delivering results through cooperation and common ground. He also underscored his ongoing commitment to preparing future leaders, pointing to the McConnell Center at the University of Louisville as one of his proudest achievements.

Central Bank Center | Lexington

The premier gathering of Kentucky's business and political leadership returns. At the 31st Annual Kentucky Chamber Day Dinner, presented by Fidelity Investments, the governor and legislative leaders (all invited) reveal their priorities for the year ahead—giving you exclusive insight into the issues that matter most for your business and community.

FROM THE FRONT

Chairman

“Condrad’s extensive leadership experience and deep commitment to Kentucky’s business community make him an outstanding choice to serve as chair of the Kentucky Chamber,” said Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Ashli Watts. “Through his work in the logistics industry and his service on numerous civic and business boards, he has demonstrated a strong vision for growth and collaboration. We look forward to the year ahead under his leadership.”

“I am honored to serve as chair of the Kentucky Chamber,” said Daniels. “The Chamber plays a critical role in advancing policies and partnerships that strengthen Kentucky’s economy and communities. I look forward to working alongside business leaders across the Commonwealth to build on this momentum and create even greater opportunities for Kentucky.”

Kim Halbauer, Regional President of Fifth Third Bank, Kentucky, will serve as chair-elect for 2026.

Les Fugate, Vice President, Director, Public Affairs, U.S. State & Local, Canada & Latin America of Brown-Forman Corporation, will serve as chair of the Kentucky Chamber Foundation.

Accelerating Solutions. Building Opportunity.

KENTUCKY CHAMBER FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES NEXT CHAPTER

To Strengthen Kentucky’s Future

Kentucky’s growth depends on businesses leading solutions that create opportunities, strengthen communities, and drive the state forward. With its next chapter, the Kentucky Chamber Foundation is expanding its impact across the Commonwealth, guided by its strengthened purpose: unlock the power of business, accelerate solutions, and build opportunity in Kentucky.

“This next chapter marks a defining moment in our work, demonstrating the growing impact of business-led solutions across Kentucky. We are proud of what we have accomplished alongside our partners and Chamber members, and this reintroduction builds on that foundation. When employers engage with the Foundation, they help unlock solutions that extend beyond individual companies and create a thriving future for the entire Commonwealth and its people,” said Kentucky Chamber Foundation Senior Vice President Beth Davisson.

The Foundation’s work will continue to advance this mission through three core areas: driving collaborative, business-led solutions to tackle key challenges; expanding opportunity by strengthening communities and addressing barriers to prosperity; and building for tomorrow by focusing on long-term strategies and future trends.

Kentucky Chamber Senior Vice President of Public Affairs Kate Shanks and Vice President of Policy Charles Aull testify with Kentucky Collaborative on Child Care members Liz McQuillen of the Metro United Way and Kenneth Calloway of Century Aluminum

Opportunity Starts Here

To drive coordinated action on this issue, the Chamber led the formation of the Kentucky Collaborative on Child Care, bringing together business leaders, child care providers, educators, and community partners to develop a shared plan for strengthening child care across the Commonwealth.

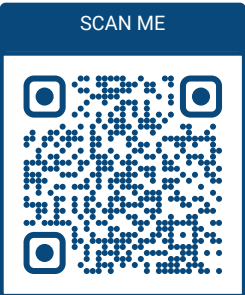

The Collaborative identified key priorities for the 2026 session, including improving data, modernizing regulations, strengthening the child care workforce, supporting high-quality programs, engaging employers and communities, and ensuring that working families have affordable and reliable options.

According to new research by the Kentucky Chamber Center for Policy and Research, “A Workforce Solution that Works,” expanded child care access alone could potentially enable 16,000–28,000 parents to enter the workforce, generating up to $1.1 billion in wages and tax revenue.

The Chamber is also leading on housing, another key factor limiting growth. Drawing from the 2024 “Building a Foundation for Growth” report, the Chamber presented to the General Assembly calling attention to the 200,000-unit shortage, rising costs, outdated zoning, and lack of infrastructure that are constraining new housing supply.

Through Opportunity Starts Here, the Chamber is urging lawmakers to prioritize child care and housing as workforce and economic priorities—and to advance solutions that position Kentucky for long-term growth and competitiveness.

The Chamber has built a petition for Kentuckians to sign and show their support for these issues.

KENTUCKY BUSINESS LEADERS STEADY ON ECONOMY, Cite Workforce and Housing as Ongoing Challenges

A survey by the National Association of State Chambers and Siena College Research Institute gathered insights from over 200 business and nonprofit leaders on Kentucky’s economy, workforce, and policy priorities. Respondents from a wide range of industries shared perspectives on key challenges and opportunities facing employers across Kentucky.

“Understanding how employers view the economy and what’s holding back growth helps us focus on solutions that expand opportunity,” said Kentucky Chamber President and CEO Ashli Watts. “This year’s results show Kentucky’s business community remains steady but realistic—optimistic about growth potential while increasingly focused on workforce shortages and the need for housing to support employees.”

Public Policy

Workforce development remains the top concern for employers, with 54% citing it as the most urgent issue. Personal income tax reform (47%) and affordable housing (43%) also ranked highly, with housing now seen as a critical factor in workforce participation and business growth. Additionally, 42% of employers said they would expand child care benefits if matched by public funding, pointing to growing interest in collaborative solutions like Kentucky’s Employee Child Care Assistance Partnership.

Views on the Economy

Top concerns include government regulation, taxation, health care costs, and supplier pricing—though fewer employers cited these issues compared to 2024. Workforce shortages remain a barrier, but conditions have improved slightly: 28% now say there’s an adequate supply of trained workers, up from 16%. Revenue expectations held steady, with 44% anticipating growth over the next year.

AI Adoption

AI usage remains limited but is growing, particularly in finance, retail, and professional services. Among adopters, 87% report improved efficiency, with added benefits in customer outreach and business development.

Kentucky Confidence

Long-term business confidence remains high. Eighty-one percent of respondents expect their company to stay in Kentucky over the next decade, and 80% would choose the state again if starting fresh—reflecting steady optimism despite ongoing workforce and housing challenges.

KENTUCKY CHAMBER FOUNDATION AND GLI LAUNCH

New Kentuckian Hiring Academy

To help employers address workforce shortages, the Kentucky Chamber Foundation and Greater Louisville Inc. (GLI) launched the New Kentuckian Hiring Academy in August. The one-day training equipped 21 participants from 17 companies with strategies to recruit and retain work-authorized immigrants, refugees, and documented workers.

Attendees learned about legal considerations, workforce demographics, and best practices for supporting immigrant talent, while also hearing directly from new Kentuckians about their experiences. Louisville is home to nearly 90,000 foreign-born residents, many of whom are highly educated and already filling critical workforce needs.

Powered by

Kentucky Chamber Foundation

“New Kentuckians are already filling critical roles in industries facing persistent labor shortages, which makes employer engagement a key opportunity,” said Kelly Gold, Vice President of Marketing, Talent Attraction and Retention of Greater Louisville Inc. “That’s why GLI is proud to partner on this pilot to meet growing regional demand for innovative workforce solutions. By bringing the New Kentuckian Hiring Academy to Louisville, we’re giving employers tailored resources that address state and regional needs while strengthening our community’s talent pipeline.”

LOCAL CHAMBERS RECOGNIZED AS PART OF

Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Executives 2025 Excellence Awards

Local chambers from across the Commonwealth were honored at the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Executives (KCCE) 2025 Annual Dinner in September, held during the organization's Annual Conference in Bardstown.

The dinner and awards ceremony also paid tribute to local chambers of commerce in areas of operational excellence, including membership growth and retention, civic engagement, and more.

As part of the dinner, the KCCE Board named Tish Shade of the Frankfort Area Chamber as 2026 president, succeeding Michelle Bundren of the Murray-Calloway Chamber.

The group recognized Bullitt County Chamber President and CEO Anita Stump as Chamber Professional of the Year this year.

Ava Bogard of Calloway County wins the 2025 National Civics Bee Kentucky State Finals

AVA BOGARD OF CALLOWAY COUNTY WINS 2025 National Civics Bee® Kentucky State Finals

The Kentucky Chamber Foundation hosted the 2025 National Civics Bee Kentucky State Finals in August at the Kentucky State Fair, where middle school students from across the Commonwealth showcased their civics knowledge and presented solutions to issues impacting their communities.

Ava Bogard of Calloway County earned first place, followed by Phoenix Hurtgen and Lucy Reynolds of Taylor County. Bogard represented Kentucky at the National Civics Bee in Washington, D.C., in November.

“We want middle school students across Kentucky to see that civic engagement isn’t just something for adults. It starts with them,” said Beth Davisson, Senior Vice President of the Kentucky Chamber Foundation. “We hope the Civics Bee sparks curiosity, confidence, and a deeper understanding of how their voice and actions can shape their communities.”

The National Civics Bee is a national initiative aimed at encouraging more young Americans to engage in civics and contribute to their communities, organized in partnership with The Civic Trust of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Foundation.
