why attend

Now more than ever, due to COVID-19, the Health Care Industry is on the forefront of safety, and they need to be on the forefront of safety and health practices and management. The NEW HEALTHCARE ETS (Emergency Temporary Standard) in effect requires immediate compliance. Employers who provide inpatient and outpatient medical, nursing and dental services to the public may face the widest range of job-related hazard/exposures of all occupational business sectors. Exposures can include, chemical and physical agents, pharmaceuticals, infectious diseases, and ionizing radiation to name a few. Medical employers are required by the Occupational Safety and Health Act to provide a workplace free from recognized hazards that may pose harm to their employees. The Occupational Safety & Health Administration (OSHA), creates and enforces mandatory requirements (OSHA Standards), many which apply to medical and related operations.

This two-day course will cover the background and relevance of applied Occupational Safety & Health (OSH) Management practices and will specifically discuss and clarify those OSHA regulations applicable to healthcare operations.

Get your questions answered regarding:

- How has COVID-19 impacted OSH in the Health Care Industry?
 - Scope of the new Healthcare ETS
 - How do I comply with the new Healthcare ETS
- What standards apply to us?
- How do we meet OSHA compliance requirements for our industry?
- What PPE do we need?
- Best health practices for COVID-19?
- What training does OSHA require?
- What are the industry best practices?

Attendees will also receive user friendly compliance templates, and reference guides.

The course was designed specifically for the healthcare providers and will be facilitated by two Board Certified Safety/Health Professionals, (CSPs) with a wide range of safety experience, including healthcare, along with COVID-19 safety response.
